

Kaufmann Ready to Tackle the Heavyweights, Is Declaration of Billy Delaney, Veteran Trainer.

BILLY DELANEY says that Al Kaufmann is ready fight for the heavy-weight championship. For years the champion maker has watched Kaufmann's progress and has been bringing him

"I'm all wrapped up in this boy," said Delaney yesterday afternoon. "When he's fighting I may look cool, but I can tell you I feel mighty nervous and excited. Al is ready now for the best of them. I believe he is a better man than Burns. In fact, I'm sure Al can knock them all out with a right-hand swing. That won't do among experienced men. A fellow leaves himself too open, and a clever man will catch him and drop him. The first thing I said to Ai when I took hold of him was: on and intow it away. You've got your left.

The aid it, too. Al has a great left hand-better than his right, when he knocked Bradley down with his right the other might he went against my instructions. But I suppose he saw an opening and found he could shoot the right into it safely, and the temptation was too much for him. It's all right to take advantage of an opening any time.

man that he whips ever wins a hard fight afterward. They don't recover from the punishment he hands out. You notice Bradley. He is strong and clever and game. But Al put a few hard ones into his body, and you'll find that he won't weather the next bruising fight he has. None of them
